PREFACE

The various subclasses of class K, Law (with the exception of those for theocratic legal systems), have been published over a twenty-eight year period that began in 1969 with the publication of subclass KF, Law of the United States, and ended in 1997 with the publication of subclass KZ, Law of Nations. The subclasses for theocratic legal systems are currently under development and have not yet been published. Each individual schedule was originally published with its own set of form division tables appended at the end of the schedule. Although the tables have much in common across the range of schedules, they also exhibit minor variations from one schedule to another in level of detail, notation, terminology, and arrangement.

In response to requests from the law library community to correct these inconsistencies in the form division tables, the Cataloging Policy and Support Office has developed this set of uniform tables (Tables K1-K24) to be used with all of the K subclasses except the oldest three, KD, KE, and KF. The tables were drafted by Jolande Goldberg, law classification specialist, and edited by Paul G. Weiss, senior cataloging policy specialist. They have been developed with the advice of interested technical services librarians on the Cataloging and Classification Committee of the American Association of Law Libraries and with input from the general library community sent in response to an invitation for comment that was published in Cataloging Service Bulletin, Number 72, Spring 1996.

These tables are being published in a separate volume in order to facilitate their maintenance, update, and application across schedules.

The Library of Congress began using these new form division tables in spring 1999 in conjunction with the following schedules: K, KDZ, KG-KH, KJ-KKZ, KJV-KJW, KK-KKC, KL-KWX, and KZ. As stated above, these tables are not being used with KD, KE, or KF. The form division tables that were designed specifically for use with KD, KE, and KF continue to be applied, and are included with their respective schedules. They do not appear in this publication.

New editions of all of the K schedules will be published in the near future, beginning with subclass K, which is being published simultaneously with this volume of tables. In the new editions of the schedules (except KD, KE, and KF), the form division table references will be updated so that they point to the uniform Tables K1-K24 contained in this publication. In the meantime, a conversion table included here will enable users of the LC Classification to begin applying these new form division tables immediately, even while still using the older editions of the K schedules. This conversion table shows the form division table numbers that appear in the older editions of the K schedules and their equivalent table numbers in this new volume of tables.

New or revised numbers and captions will be added to these tables as a result of development proposals made by the cataloging staff of the Library of Congress and cooperating institutions. Upon approval of these proposals by the weekly editorial meeting of the Cataloging Policy and Support Office, new classification table records will be created or existing records revised in the master classification database. The Classification Editorial Team, consisting of Lawrence Buzard, editor, and Barry Bellinger, Kent Griffiths, Nancy Jones, and Dorothy Thomas, assistant editors, is responsible for creating new classification and table records and maintaining the master database.

Cataloging Policy and Support Office
